Dall-Connor Wedding In All Souls' Church

Following the Noon Ceremony a Wedding Breakfast Was Served at the Home of the Bride's Parents on Twelfth Street.

Miss Marion Dall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Healey Dall, of 1119 Twelfth street, and Charles Connor were married at noon today in All Souls' Church by the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, assisted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. U. S. Pierce. The church decorations were effective in a color scheme of green, palms being the keynote.

Miss Dall, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a modish traveling gown of brown cloth, with a becoming hat, and carried a shower of white orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride had as her attendants two matrons of honor and six bridesmaids. Mrs. William Curtis Hill and Mrs. John P. Wilson, Jr., of Chicago, were the matrons of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Estelle Whitney, an aunt of the bride, Miss Mary Aldrich, a cousin of the bride; Miss Marjorie Birm, all of New York; Miss Jessie Ring, of Saginaw, Mich., also a cousin of the bride, and Miss Ridgely and Miss Taylor Arms, of Washington. The gowns of the attendants were all alike, white chiffon over pale yellow silk, and they carried bouquets of red roses.

SOCIETY ATTENDS BENEFIT CONCERT

Delightful Tableaux and Play for Benefit of House of Mercy.

Society by courtesy kept last evening open for the purpose of attending the tableaux, play, and concert at Reacher's for the benefit of the House of Mercy, and there was a large and gratifying audience. The cast of the play and tableaux had to be considerably changed at the last moment, Miss Cary Crawford, Miss Katherine Jennings, Miss Juliette Williams, and Miss Katherine Clabaugh having to drop out because of illness, which was a matter of great disappointment. The reconstructed cast of the tableaux was as follows:

Cupid's Dilemma and Cupid's Decision
Cupid and Psyche.....Miss Prescott
Pandora.....Miss Prescott

THE MUSES.
Clio.....Miss Prescott
Euterpe.....Miss Jean Crosby
Thalia.....Miss Mollie Dodge
Melpomene.....Miss Marion Leutz
Terpsichore.....Miss Satterlee
Erato.....Miss Satterlee
Polymnia.....Miss Juliette Williams
Urania.....Miss Elmer Slater
Calliope.....Miss Scott

The Misses Shonts added to their already well-known reputation for good dancing by appearing in bright scarlet tulle with sparkling sequins, and white satin and pink rose buds, respectively, the attendant Cupid to the latter being in pink tights and gold wings. Miss Olga Converse did an exquisite skirt dance and looked a picture. The one-act play "Place aux Dames" was given by Miss Ruggles, as Portia; Miss Converse, as Ophelia; Miss Watson, as Juliette; Mrs. Chapman-Smith, as Lady Macbeth.

The "Persian Garden" was exquisitely sung by Miss Doe, Mrs. Reed, Mr. Battle, and Mr. Hopkins, accompanied by Mr. Eldredge, all of St. Mark's church choir. Although the music did not suit Miss Doe's lovely voice as well as the other things she has sung, the quality was delightful and the ensemble work was good, showing much skill in the training.

Among the distinguished people in the audience were Mrs. William A. Slater, in an empire gown of black net, embroidered in iridescent angles and built over blue silk; Mrs. Henry Wells, black velvet, with a deep yoke of white lace, outlined in jet passementerie; Miss Eleanor Terry, princess gown of white crepe, and a large white feather boa; Mrs. John Biddle, champagne crepe, trimmed with heavy lace in the same tone; Miss Elsie Cobb, champagne liberty, with sun-pleated bodice and skirt; Mrs. Upton Muir, white embroidered chiffon; Mrs. John J. Jones, French blue voile, with yoke of white lace, outlined with gold; Mrs. Lee Phillips, blue crepe de chine and chiffon, with a deep yoke of French lace and boules of gold; Mrs. Ralph Jenkins, white lace; Mrs. Ernest Howe, pink brocade trimmed with embroidered bands in the same tone; Mrs. Edson Bradley, pompadour silk, with insets of lace; Miss Helen Poulke, white valencienne, trimmed with narrow bands of pale yellow velvet ribbon; Mrs. Louise Gray Chiffon, with sequins of cut steel; Miss Errol Brown, white lace, with pompadour ribbon; Miss Louisa, champagne crepe, with points of Venice lace; Miss Denny, white crepe, with touches of gold; Miss Schroeder, white embroidered crepe de chine; Mrs. Barney, black sequined net; Miss Siebert, pale blue satin, with bertha of point lace, and Mrs. Lyman Tiffany, gray crepe de chine.

Canal Contractors Holding Conference

expected the contract will be passed upon by Chairman Shonts and Secretary of War Taft.

In the opinion of some of the canal commissioners, the labor end is the most difficult part of the job. An engineer may plan a lock, but he must have labor to accomplish the end, and the question of handling labor and getting results on the isthmus is recognized as a difficult one.

Knows How to Handle Labor.

Mr. Oliver is one of the biggest employers of contract labor in the South, if not in all the country. His plan of handling the Southern negroes in relays of several thousand, returning them to this country after a period of work, already has been described. Both contractors have had leading officials and confidential men in their employ on the isthmus for several months, studying the conditions, the possibilities and estimating the cost, difficulties and length of time that may be required. As a result of the reports, they feel confident that they can do the job at 4.25 with good profit and get better results for the amount of money invested, out of the Southern negro than any foreign labor—Spanish, Jamaican negro, or Chinese could.

As to Mr. Bang's ability to handle the lock part of the canal, government officials point to his record of having accomplished one of the biggest engineering feats in the country and the biggest lock in the world, on the 300 canal. That work alone is looked upon by Chairman Shonts as sufficient recommendation of Mr. Bang's ability to build the locks.

Hurry Work on Bids.

It is understood to be the desire of the Canal Commission to pass upon the bids and have the contracts drawn up at the earliest possible moment, in order that the contractors may get down on the isthmus and take over the work before the close of Congress. The contract will be made out with the time limit blank, subject to the future decision of the commission, which, upon granting the contract, will immediately set out in a body for the isthmus, to make a careful study of conditions, there in order to fix the time limit. They will then name the bonus which will be granted for earlier construction.

Before leaving the city Mr. Oliver said he and Mr. Bangs stood in readiness to be on the isthmus within twenty days, with the time limit fixed, and the work could easily be taken over within a month. "Within the sixty-day limit, I think, we could make considerable dirt fly," he said.

Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition

EXPOSITION OPENS APRIL 26 AND CLOSES NOVEMBER 30

The Jamestown Exposition, near Norfolk, Va., will have many features of attraction different from those at other expositions, most prominent among which will be the Naval and Military gatherings, but one feature of peculiar interest will be the colonial style of architecture in which all of the buildings are constructed. Between thirty and thirty-five States will have State buildings, nearly all of which are replicas of noted colonial buildings or are built after the purest type of the Georgian period.

OLD BULLOCK MANSION—GEORGIA STATE BUILDING.

The State of Georgia will reproduce the Bullock Homestead, which was the home of the President's mother in that State. This will unquestionably be one of the most popular, as well as one of the most attractive resorts on the Exposition grounds. The President himself has agreed to deliver an address there on Georgia day in June next.

THE MASSACHUSETTS BUILDING

Massachusetts is erecting a replica of the old State house at Boston. This will be a fine illustration of the joining of hands between the sections when the Massachusetts State house is erected on Virginia soil, and is the mecca for visitors from the North, as well as the South.

CONNECTICUT STATE BUILDING.

The Connecticut building is a beautiful specimen of the architecture of the wealthy aristocrat of the colonial period, with its broad galleries and Grecian columns. It stands on a beautiful site, overlooking the waters of Hampton Roads, where it will command a fine view of the assembled navies of the world in 1907.
